SCAM ALERT

We've been made aware of fraudulent mortgage loan letters being mailed to individuals pretending to be from Integra First. The letters are marked "Final Notice" and appear to include loan information. It states that it is very urgent to call the number listed which is not our number. Please do not provide information to fraudsters. There are numerous ways that fraudsters try to scam people including by mail and phone calls requesting confidential information. Again, it's very important to not provide confidential information to scammers. Additionally, never give out your login credentials for your financial accounts. If you are uncertain about whether a letter or phone call is from us please contact our credit union directly. We will be happy to verify whether something was a legitimate letter or request.
